THE SEA ANEMONE.

A Queer Little Animal with Many Arms and Big Appetite.
In structure the sea anemone consists of a sac divided by vertical partitions into as many distinct cavities as there are fingers or tentacles, says the Baltimore Sun. At birth there are six of these cavities, then come twelve, next forty-eight, and so on. The mouth of the animal occupies the center of the crown or head of the anemone and of all the waving arms. The body of the creature may be described as a circular gelatinous bag. The upper part of this bag is turned in so as to form a sac within a sac. The inner sac is the stomach of the animal. It has an aperture at the bottom, through which the food can pass into the outer cavity. The eggs are attached to and hang on the inner edge of the partition. When they mature they drop into the main body cavity and enter the stomach through the hole in the lower opening. From there the little ones are passed out through the mouth, from which orifices they are tenderly taken by two tentacles, which become wonderfully elongated for the occasion. These tentacles take up the young anemones, now perfect in form and function, and very carefully and slowly deposit them on the rock around the base and close to the mother anemone.

The young anemones may remain for some time upon the spot where they are placed, but they have the means of locomotion. This is effected by a double set of muscles, one running around the body and the other longitudinally arranged. I have fourteen young anemones, all born in my aquarium since my return from Bermuda about fourteen weeks ago. Their ages vary from three months down to the youngest, born four days ago.

The anemones are possessed of a peculiar means of offense and defense. These are poisoned threads of arrows, embedded in the outer skin substance, and which are capable of being shot out with considerable force and inconceivable rapidity. They bury themselves in whatever object against which they are projected, and probably convey to the wound some poisonous matter which renders their prey a helpless victim to the anemone's greedy mouth.

The anemone has a sense of smell and also rudimentary eyes—not of much use probably—but the most interesting sense which it possesses is that of taste. Notwithstanding its voraciousness, it has its pronounced likes and dislikes. I feed mine upon bits of oyster or clam, or fresh meat, scraped fine. Every piece dropped in the water over them is seized by their outstretched arms and passed hurriedly to their mouths. The dullest food for them, however, are the small crabs sometimes found in oyster shells. These the anemones fairly revel in. A good-sized sea flower could easily swallow a whole crab at a meal.

EXPIRED FROM RAGE.

A Newspaper Man Truthfully Describes His Experience on the Prairie.
Snake stories are in season, and we propose to tell one literally true, says the Atlanta Journal. We were riding over the unsettled prairies of Kansas with a companion, when we came suddenly upon a large prairie rattlesnake. The growth of grass all over the prairie was rank and thick, and fully six or eight inches high, except in the little flat or depressed spots where the water had stood until late in the spring; on these it was short and scant. It was one of these parties bare places, perhaps thirty feet square, that we came upon the snake. We took out our revolver, and were about to shoot at it, but our companion said: "Don't shoot." We had wasted most of our loads shooting at prairie-chickens, etc., and might need what we had left for other game.

There was not a stick large enough for a riding switch within a mile, but there were limestone rocks here and there on the prairie, and he said if we would keep the snake in the bare place he would keep a short distance back and get a rock where he had one. We undertook the task, but the snake was vicious, and bent on getting out into the high grass. Finding that he would get out if he had to pass under our horse, we drew back a few steps and fired at him. The ball struck and cut up the ground a few inches beyond him; but the discharge seemed to change his entire disposition and action. He wriggled to a small "resin weed" growing in the bare spot, and coiled himself tightly around it. By this time our companion had returned with a rock, and, dismounting, we threw it at the snake. It struck the ground a few inches beyond him, and he never moved.

Approaching cautiously we drew away the stone with the crooked handle of an umbrella and again threw it at the snake. This time it did not quite reach him, but struck the ground near him and rolled over so as to touch him lightly. Still he never moved or rattled.

With some fear of danger we quietly touched him with the end of the umbrella, and as he still remained motionless and quiet we cautiously unwound him from his coil around the weed. He was limp as a rag, but entirely dead—dead all over; not even his tail gave any signs of vitality. There was not a bruise about him, and certainly we had not hurt him with either ball or rock. We could only conclude that in his rage or fright when fired at he had bitten and thus killed himself.

ominous Lines Foretelling the Destruction of French Civilization.
A Belgian paper professes to have unearthed a really curious passage out of an old book in the State Library of Brussels, says the Nation. This book was published by Jean Stratiun in Lyons in the year 1585, and contains a number of astrological "prophecies" much in the style of the more celebrated ones of Nostradamus. Among these is said to be the following: "Tu do a virre et mourir, O Gauls, seute trots Bo.
Doux Sicles sous Bo L, tu balanceras, O Gauls.
Tu courras Bo II, als a feras tombau; Puts sous mitron Bo III, Lis Clem elord ton felle."
The meaning of these lines seems to be something like this: "Thou must live and die, O Gaul, under three Bo's. For two centuries under Bo I, thou shalt rise, and thou shalt rend thyself into pieces. Then under Bo II, the baker, Bo Clem will end thy life." The explanation of the supposed "prophecy" is plain enough. "Bo I" is the Bourbon dynasty, which ruled France for two centuries—from 1589 to 1789, from Henry IV. to the outbreak of the revolution. "Bo II" is evidently Napoleon Bonaparte, and "bozau" seems to be a play upon his Corsican origin. Lastly, who can fail to see that "Bo III," the "baker," is Boulanger! Whilst the "Bo Clem" who is to bring France's destiny to an ignominious end can only be Bo (march) and Clem (escapes). Such is said to be the prophecy published in 1585 by one Jacques Nolas, Doctor of Laws, and Advocate to the Parliament of Meaux.

5 O'CLOCK EDITION.

Chae Chang Ping.

The San Francisco Call's Washington correspondent says the Justices of the Supreme Court have expressed some surprise that California should have sent four lawyers to Washington to argue the Chae Chang Ping case. The Court will hear but two of these lawyers, and the Justices profess not to understand of what use a lawyer can be unless he talks. The four lawyers are sent to emphasize the interest California takes in the case. It was reported, and doubtless with truth, that the man-dealers would have a number of lawyers engaged in the case, and consequently the State determined that the constitutionality of the law should be sustained by a corresponding array of talent. A decision of the Supreme Court is quoted which indicates that the court will in the Chae Chang Ping case sustain the law. That decision says: "When the stipulations (of the treaty) are not self-executing they cannot be enforced pursuant to legislation to carry them into effect, and such legislation is as much subject to modification and repeal by Congress as legislation upon any other subject." The stipulations of the treaty with China are not self-executing. The certificate which Chae Chang Ping presumably holds was authorized by law. The treaty makes no provision for such certificate. The treaty never had any effect in restraining Chinese immigration. On the contrary such immigration was stimulated by the treaty. Anticipating a law which would restrict immigration the Chinese flocked to this country by the thousands in the months between the ratification of the treaty and the date for the law to go into operation. The treaty is dated November 17, 1882. No one who was in California in the period included between these dates will pretend that the treaty had any self-executing power at all. As a consequence, according to the decision quoted, legislation to enforce the treaty is as much subject to modification and repeal by Congress as legislation upon any other subject. The Court will have to reverse itself in order to nullify the Exclusion Act.

The Republican party was ashamed, common decency outraged and every American who esteems his citizenship caused to blush by the disgraceful conduct of a parcel of Republican rowdies in Washington on the night preceding the inauguration of President Harrison. These hoodlums, gathered about the White House and paraded the grounds until daylight, singing ribald songs and insulting President Cleveland and his family by vulgar expressions, by tapping on the windows and asking when the occupants were going to move out, and by intoning political chants, and improvising coarse and partisan songs, involving the name of the President and insulting to his family. It is amazing, says the Record-Union, that neither the Washington nor the Federal police interfered, and that both forces treated the affair as rather in the line of practical joking than as grossly in violation of the peace, and as insulting to the Chief Magistrate of the nation. It is the first instance on record when an outgoing President was thus subjected to the scurrility of partisan hoodlums.

ASSEMBLYMAN BRUCE's rape and seduction bill, which was defeated in the Senate, was supported by the following Senators, who, should they ever again ask for an office in Nevada, should receive the warm support of all lovers of decency and morality. They were Boyle, Comins, Dunlop, Forbes, Gallagher, Millett, Sproule and Williams.

MR. CHAUNCEY M. DEFEW, whose fame as an after dinner story teller has thrown into the background his numerous solid qualifications, is reported to have declined the English mission. This is a loss to that great dining nation which will be with difficulty appreciated.

THE California farmer is, like his Eastern colleagues, always threatened by too little or too much rain. At present he is grumbling because he has too much. Last year he hadn't enough. There is a story of two farmers, one who occupied a farm on the top of a hill, and the other at the bottom. The man at the top was continually threatened with drouth, the one at the bottom in constant fear of a flood. Between their conflicting prayers Providence is supposed to have had a hard time of it.

EX-PRESIDENT CLEVELAND had his name painted on the door of a New York law office a few days ago, and last Monday left for Cuba on a trip. Nobody will deny that Mr. Cleveland has richly earned a rest, but the promptness with which he went a-sailing after his re-entrance upon the professional path will excite a little wonder.

Knocked Senseless.
SAN FRANCISCO, March 19.—The glove contest between Jimmy Carroll, formerly of Boston, and Sam Blacklock of England took place to-night at the rooms of the California Athletic Club. The men weighed 133 pounds each. Young Mitchell and George McDonald seconded Blacklock and Sam Fitzpatrick and Tom Meadows acted for Carroll. Tom Cook acted as referee. Fifteen hundred people were present. In the first two rounds the men sparred cautiously. Blacklock led, but Carroll avoided him.

In the third round Blacklock got in a sharp one on Carroll's mouth with his left, and in the fifth Carroll got in a heavy blow on Blacklock's nose, drawing first blood. Fierce fighting followed, Carroll doing his best work. From the sixth to the tenth rounds considerable rushing was done, the honors apparently being even. In the tenth round Carroll got in a terrific right-hander, knocking Blacklock down.

In the eleventh round Carroll scored another knock-down, but his rushing pace told and both men appeared weak. In the twelfth round Blacklock came up fresh, but Carroll rushed him around the ring, bent on finishing him up. Sammy took his punishment bravely, showing considerable cleverness.

The thirteenth round opened with Blacklock groggy but plucky. Carroll got in a number of vicious upper cuts, Blacklock tapping him feebly. In the fourteenth round Carroll rushed his opponent, the latter clinching in an effort to save himself. Carroll whirled round, hitting the Englishman in the face, but the latter would not go down.

In the sixteenth round Carroll started in with a rush, giving blow after blow. Blacklock struggled manfully to hold his own, but Carroll was too strong for him and finished his work with a terrific right-hander laying the Englishman senseless. The fight was an exceedingly plucky one from the start.

Receiving Strong Opposition.
WASHINGTON, March 20.—The first man to be hauled up on charges is Wolfy of Arizona, nominated for Governor of Arizona. There seems to be a considerable uprising in the neighborhood of Tucson in opposition to his confirmation, and the members of the Senate Committee on Territories are all receiving telegrams asking them to hang him up until the people of the Territory may be heard from. One of the members of the Committee on Territories says: "If what some people in Arizona have said in telegrams to us is true, there are serious reasons why Wolfy should not be Governor, but it is a question whether they are not a result of a personal feeling among disappointed office-seekers. William Penn Nixon of the Inter-Ocean, now in Arizona, telegraphs us that it is an excellent appointment, and satisfactory to the best class of citizens down there."

New York. March 20.—Delegate Smith of Arizona, says of the Wolfy complications: "I have a very slight acquaintance with Wolfy and I do not know the nature of the charges. Wolfy is a business man, and I understand that he bears a good reputation, but I have heard that there is considerable dissatisfaction over his appointment. There were a number of aspirants for gubernatorial honors, and I suppose the opposition comes from the friends of the disappointed candidates."

Bleeding Horse Shipment.
CITY OF KANSAS, Ky., March 20.—A carload of horses were shipped to-day by W. H. Wilson to G. Valensin of Pleasanton, Cal. They comprised Seminole, by Simmond, dam by Strathmore; three-year-old mare, by Dictator, dam by Mambrino Time; three-year-old, Red Wilkes, dam by Curtis Hambletonian; two-year-old, by Alendorff, dam by Orange Blossom; two-year-old, Wilkes Boy, dam Mambrino Time; seven-year-old, by Stramore, dam by Alexander's Abdallah 2d.

Nominations Confirmed.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—In the Senate this morning, after half an hour waiting without the transaction of any business, a paper was handed Senator Cullum, and on his motion the Senate went into executive session.

There were an unusually large number of callers at the White House this morning, including Senators Mitchell and Dolph. A public reception was held this afternoon.

While the Senate was sitting with closed doors, Butler offered a series of resolutions which went over till to-morrow, declaring that the tenure of the President pro tem does not expire at the meeting of Congress after recess by reason of the Vice-President having appeared to take the chair, and that the presence of the Vice-President does not have the effect to vacate the office of President pro tem, and that the office of President pro tem shall be held at the pleasure of the Senate.

It was ordered that the daily hour of meeting be at one o'clock. The nominations made to-day were referred in executive session to appropriate committees.

Sewell Recognized.
WASHINGTON, March 20.—Sewell, recently Consul to Samoa, will accompany the Samoan Commission to Berlin as disbursing officer.

It is believed President Harrison has reconsidered his decision to appoint Fred Grant Minister to China, and will give him another place. This is said to be for the reason that a man of experience, thoroughly versed in law, is necessary for that place, because of the strained relations between the two countries.

It is stated that holders of copper warrants have decided not to sell them, but to continue negotiations with the mine owners, with a view of reorganizing an agreement for a diminished production.

Drunken College Students.
NEW HAVEN, March 20.—Yale College is in a fever of indignant excitement over a very stupid lark perpetrated by a party of inebriated students last evening, when the large bronze statue of the late Professor Benjamin Stillman was dragged from its pedestal and other mischief done. The neck of the statue was badly cracked and the body slightly bent. It has been repaired and put in place, and the Faculty will make a rigid investigation.

Instantly Killed.
Robert Cochran, aged 14, killed Albert Franklin, aged 12, at Hollister, Cal., last Monday. The boys had been snapping a pistol at each other's heads, and after an interval Cochran took up the weapon, pointed it at Franklin's forehead and pulled the trigger.

A cartridge supposed to have been placed in the pistol by the youngest boy during the interval was exploded, and the ball entered Franklin's head between his eyes, killing him instantly.

JOTTINGS.

Three chairs and a thorough artist behind each are what can always be found at John Belz's barber shop.

All books used in any of the schools of this vicinity and all kinds of school supplies can be had at C. J. Brookins.

For a nice hot lunch, a glass of good beer or wine, or the best bit cigar in town, go to George Becker's Granite Saloon.

James Killen of the Pollard House continues to sit up nights to attend to the wants of all who favor him with their patronage.

Lead pencils, rubber and steel erasers, pen-holders, harmonicas, call-bells and razor strops at C. A. Thurston's news depot.

The Riverside Hotel, under the management of Mr. and Mrs. Chamberlain, is equal in every respect to any family resort in the State.

John Fraser, successor to Mead & Wilson, is one of the very few butchers who reduce the retail price of their meats when the wholesale prices take a tumble.

M. Cooper of the Pioneer Hotel challenges any house in the State to set before their patrons a better 25-cent meal than can be had three times a day at his house.

The general appearance of that $100,000 Carson river water project is decidedly fishy, but J. J. Becker was never accused of giving his patrons anything but a square deal.

If house-rent, fuel and wear of furniture are taken into consideration, it will be found that two people can board at the Depot Hotel for less money than they can cook their own meals.

Progress.

It is very important in this age of vast material progress that a remedy be pleasing to the taste and to the eye, easily taken, acceptable to the stomach and healthy in its nature and effects. Possessing these qualities, Syrup of Figs is the one perfect laxative and most gentle diuretic known.

Make no mistake.

By dispelling the symptoms so often mistaken for Consumption, Santa Ana has brought gladness to many a household. By its prompt use for breaking up the cold that too often develops into that fatal disease, thousands can be saved from an untimely grave. You make no mistake by keeping a bottle of this pleasant remedy in your house. CALIFORNIA CATHARTIC is equally effective in eradicating all traces of Nasal Catarrh. Both of these wonderful California remedies are sold and warranted by Osburn & Shoemaker, $1.00 a package or 3 for $2.50.

Rich food and lack of exercise, during the winter months, causes the system to become torpid and the blood impure. A dose or two of St. Patrick's Pills will cleanse and invigorate the system, purify the blood and do more good than a dollar bottle of blood purifier. Sold by Osburn & Shoemaker.

This is the season of the year when the raw, cold winds create and havoc with the hands and complexion. Soft, white hands and a clear "rosy" complexion can be secured by the frequent application of Osburn's special. If rubbed into the skin until it is well absorbed, the skin will be soft and smooth. The skin will be soft and smooth. The skin will be soft and smooth.

A YOUNG INVENTOR.

A Reno Born Boy Proving a Genius.

The Douglas County Review, published at Tuscola, Ill., contains the following: "Claude Baum, aged 19, of Newman, is said to be a born genius and inventor who will some day make his mark, and that day is not very far off, if reports are true. Young Baum, it is claimed, has invented and tested a machine to be known as a water bicycle; that is, it runs on the face of the water with the speed and grace that the common bicycle will on land. He has been working on the machine for several months, and it is so perfect that it is said there is no failing in making it do just what is claimed. A public test will be made of the machine by him, when he will attempt to ride the waters of the Wabash from Mendonza to Terra Haute, and this trial is to occur within the next thirty days. It is capable of carrying 750 pounds, and will safely skim the water, no matter if it is rough. Young Baum has also constructed an electric light apparatus which is a remarkable success."

The youthful inventor is the son of B. B. Baum, who in the early days of Reno, was located here, and is a grandson of G. P. Small of Reno.

San Francisco Meat Market.

Beef continues in liberal receipt. Veal is cheaper, under larger supplies. Mutton is lower for similar reason. Following are the rates for whole carcasses from slaughterers to dealers in San Francisco:

Beef—First quality, 6@6½¢; second quality, 5½@6¢; third quality, 5@5½¢ per pound.

Veal—Quotable at 5@6¢ for large and 6@8¢ per pound for small.

Mutton—Quotable at 6@6½¢ per pound.

Lamb—Spring, 10@12½¢ per pound.

Pork—Live Hogs, on foot, grain fed, 6½@6¾¢; soft, 5½@6¢; dressed, 9½@10¢ per pound.

Death of a "Terror."

The Homer Index says: "The report is confirmed that Wilson, 'the Mill Creek terror,' is dead and gone to sheol. This event should have occurred years ago, and would but for the fact that the devil had laid out much work for him. There will be a rumour down there pretty soon, for Satan is tenant of his rights, and Wilson will insist on being boss. Sam Jones will have to be called down there to arbitrate. If we see a blaze in the direction of Carson, we will know that a rebellion has been started and has broken out where the partition is the thinnest."

A modest Request.

Editor Townsend of the Homer Index expresses himself as follows: Letters are frequently received at this office asking for specimens. A modest man in Millington, Ill., wants only a "few pounds of very rich quartz that you can see gold in." Does the unsophisticated sucker suppose that gold is any less valuable to us than to him, and that we hibernate in these mountains solely for our health? There would have been some style about it if his request had been supplemented by a twenty-dollar bank-note. We will send all the specimens that anybody will pay for.

A Grand Fizzle.

Austin Hart, who returned this morning from the reported gold mines in Lower California, brings a gloomy account of that country. He says he saw no one who was making more than $1.50 per day, and that the Americans are doing comparatively nothing. He says the Mexican Cus-tom-house at Ensenada and the line of steamers between San Diego and that place are making all the money to be made by the insane rush to that inhospitable country.

Had to Let Up.

President Harrison has had to let up on his smoking. He has been in the habit of late of smoking from ten to twelve cigars a day, but his nerves could not stand the strain. He has been obliged to cut down his indulgence in tobacco to five or six cigars per diem. He smokes nothing but imported cigars.

Stock Shipments.

Fourteen cars of beef cattle shipped at Wadsworth by Grimes & Weightman of the Sink of the Carson for Grayson, Owen & Co., Oakland, and six cars loaded at the same place for Poloy, Heilbron & Co., San Francisco, passed west to-day on a special.

Justice's Court.

J. W. Howard, who robbed a blind Indian of seventy-five cents, was found guilty and will be sentenced to-morrow.

A colored vag was ordered to appear for sentence, but it is not likely that he will show up at the appointed hour.

Not an Office Broker.

Mrs. Harrison has a young woman who opens and reads all her correspondence. The letters of office-keepers are put into the waste-basket without being shown to Mrs. Harrison.

Fatally Injured.

B. S. Sprague at Garvanza, Los Angeles county, Cal., in resisting arrest, shot Constable Harnischfeger in the forehead and subsequently was shot himself in the abdomen. Both men are fatally injured.

An interesting Address.

President Brown of the University delivered an able and interesting address at the M. E. Church last evening on "Sabbath Observance," before the Young People's Society of the above church.

Hard to Tell What.

The Portland (Or.) Telegram says: A California Legislature is neither a necessity nor a luxury. It is pretty hard to tell just what it is, unless it be characterized a failure.

A Commendable Act.

The ladies of Ouster Relief Corps of Carson City purpose giving a party for the relief of the Kaiser family, who have been such terrible sufferers from small-pox.

BREVITIES.

Local and General Intelligence. Real estate is in quick demand here at reasonable prices.

The Streeter incast case on trial in Elko is being conducted with closed doors.

L. Brooks shipped seven cars of beef cattle to-day to Hayes, Carrick & Co., San Francisco.

Large numbers of olive trees are being set out this Spring in San Luis Obispo county, Cal.

The entertainment and supper given at the Baptist Church last evening was a complete success.

Deer and California lions are said to be plentiful in the vicinity of Mill Creek, Mono county, Cal.

Jim Townsend of the Homer Index accommodates a porous plaster and draw poker for Tom Condon's lame back.

John D. James, a San Diego (Cal.) private detective, has been sentenced to two years imprisonment for attempting to levy blackmail.

Mary Anderson has been obliged to cancel all her engagements on account of nervous prostration. Her condition is said to be alarming.

Two cars (581 boxes) of Honey Lake apples were received Monday evening by the N. O. & O. railroad and forwarded to San Francisco.

S. E. Carrington has resigned his position as managing editor of the Sacramento Record Union. He will be succeeded by E. B. Willis.

The best market is again looking up. Six cents is freely offered for good cattle, and some of the feeders expect to get 6½ or 7 cents before May 1st.

J. W. E. Townsend of the Homer Index threatens to "hoist" President Harrison at the next election, unless he raises the salary of the Lundy Postmaster.

There was a snow-slide in Jacks Valley day before yesterday, says the Carson Tribune. The cabin of two wood cutters was swept away. Fortunately the two men were out of the cabin when the slide came, and escaped injury.

Justly Proud of Their State House.

Georgia's new State House cost $18.43 less than the $1,000,000 appropriated for its construction. Of it the Constitution says: "We write deliberately and advisedly when we say that the building of this Capitol, from first to last, is the best public service rendered, its scope and limitations considered, to any State or to the Government in our history. Georgia has, for less than $1,000,000, a Capitol that in beauty, richness and inspiring majesty, equals the $3,000,000 Capitol of Texas or the $2,000,000 Capitol of Connecticut, and in convenience and efficiency far surpasses either."

A Metallic Impurity.

It appears that ordinary nickel and cobalt both contain about three per cent of a hitherto unknown element, whose presence has just been detected by Dr. Kruss of Munich. The removal of this substance somewhat modifies the properties of the cobalt and nickel salts as to color, etc. The discovery is expected to explain certain discrepancies which have been noted in the various determinations of the atomic weight of nickel and cobalt.

A Libel Suit.

W. A. Ray, late President of a bank at Pasadena, has begun suit against the Los Angeles Times for $50,000 for a libelous article associating his name in a scandal.

The Age of Modern Man.

Peoples fond of saying that "man-kind is growing wiser and weaker." But is it really so? Let us glance at the facts. According to the latest statistics there are more centenarians now living than at any other previous time in the history of the world. Why? Because of the great discoveries in medical science which afford him immunity from diseases that formerly devastated mankind. Greatest of them all is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the best blood purifier and restorer of the age. Scrofula, liver-aches, tumors, unsightly ulcers and eruptions vanish like magic beneath its beneficent influence.

CORNCOB PIPES.

How They Affect Smokers' Throats and Tongues.

"Your head aches, your eyes bother you, and your throat is always parched," said a well-known physician diagnosing the case of a patient.

"Now, I can tell just what brings on these difficulties. You smoke a corn-cob pipe. Isn't that a fact?"

The sufferer replied in the affirmative, but was curious to know how the doctor learned what kind of a pipe he used.

"I see so much of this that I couldn't help knowing what ailed you," explained the medical man. "Men apparently enjoying perfect health come to me every day. They are great big, robust fellows, and they all suffer from the same cause. At first I was nonplussed, and led myself to believe that it was a new disease, but I finally discovered that the whole trouble was caused by corn-cob pipes. It needs no credulity on your part. Notice yourself, when you are smoking a corn-cob, a sickly, overpowering odor, which fills up your throat and lungs and causes a smarting sensation of the tongue. That is the smoke of the burning cob, and it contains enough crocote to cure a ham."

A Large Mortgage.

A mortgage was recorded last Thursday in the Recorder's office of Yolo county, Cal., wherein it appears that the Northern Railway Company and the Southern Pacific Railway Company have mortgaged their property in that State to the Union Trust Company of New York for $21,000,000, the bonds to run for fifty years at the rate of 5 per cent. interest per annum. The mortgage has been recorded already in ten counties.

Overmatched Themselves.

Three New Mexico desperadoes, who captured a train and a station-house, and robbed the station-master, were captured by some Indians, on whom they tried the same game, and are now in jail at Albuquerque.

Smothered by Gas.

James Spellman was killed at the Buchanan mine at Sonora, Tuolumne county, Cal., last Saturday. He entered a tunnel immediately after a blast was fired and was asphyxiated with the gas.

Buttlin Shipments.

Three bars of bullion from the Reno Reduction Works and six bars from the Mt. Diablo mine were sent below last evening per Wells, Fargo & Co.

Funeral Notice.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Burns of Verdi will take place to-morrow at 2 P. M. at the Reno Methodist Church.

Disarming an Unseen Foe.

"This was sometime a paradox," as Hamlet says. Since, however, the people of America and other lands have been enabled to pit Hostetter's Stomach Bitters against that unseen foe, it is no longer a paradox, but an easy possibility. Wherever malaria evolves its misty venom to poison the air and decaying unwholesome vegetation impregnates the water, there, in the very stronghold of miasma, is the auxiliary potent to disarm the foe and assure effective protection. Fever and ague, bilious remittent, dumb ague and ague cake, no matter how tenacious they fastened their clutch on the system, are first forced to relax their grasp and eventually to abandon it altogether. But it is for that reason that should chiefly recommend the Bitters to persons dwelling in malaria-cursed localities, for it is a certain barrier of defense against which the enemy is powerless. Cures, likewise, dyspepsia, rheumatism, kidney and bilious ailments.

A Sound Legal Opinion.

K. Bainbridge, Munday Esq., County Atty., Clay Co., Texas, says: "Have used Electric Bitters with most happy results. My brother, was also very low with malaria fever, and jaundice, but was cured by the timely use of this medicine. Am satisfied Electric Bitters saved his life."

Mr. D. I. Wilcoxson of Horse Cave, Ky., adds a like testimony, saying: He positively believes he would have died had it not been for Electric Bitters.

This great remedy will ward off, as well as cure all Malarial Diseases, and for all Kidney, Liver and Stomach disorders stands unequalled. Price, 50c and $1 at Hodgkinson's.

The New Discovery.

Constipation
Causes, directly or indirectly, fully one-half the sufferings which afflict mankind.
It is usually induced by inactivity of the liver, and may be cured by the use of Ayer's Pills. C. A. Schomers, Great Bend, Kansas, writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills for Constipation, with the most beneficial results." J. Windholm, Newark, N. J., writes: "Ayer's Pills cured me of chronic Constipation." Martin Koch, Huntington, Ind., writes: "Last year I suffered much from Biliousness

And Headache
After using one box of Ayer's Pills I was quite well." C. F. Hopkins, Nevada City, Mo., writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills, and think they are the best in the world. They have cured me of Sick Headache and Neuralgia." W. L. Page, Richmond, Va., writes: "I have been a severe sufferer from Headache. Ayer's Pills afford me speedy relief." A. J. Foster, Dauphin st., Mobile, Ala., writes: "For a number of years I have been troubled with Constipation and Headaches. After trying a number of so-called Liver Invigorators, without benefit, I was at last

Cured by Using Ayer's Pills." Rev. Francis B. Harlowe, Atlanta, Ga., writes: "For years I was subject to Constipation, from which I suffered increasing inconvenience, in spite of the use of medicines of various kinds. Some months ago, I began taking Ayer's Pills. They have entirely corrected the constive habit, and have vastly improved my general health." Herman Brinkhoff, Jewellery engraver, Newark, N. J., writes:
"Constiveness, induced by my sedentary habits of life, at one time became chronic and exceedingly troublesome. Ayer's Pills afforded me speedy relief, and their occasional use has since kept me all right." Ed. O. Esterly, Rockford, Ill., writes that he has been cured of chronic Constipation by the use of

IS DEATH PAINLESS?
Dr. Hammond Answers the Question in the Affirmative.

It is only necessary to see a person die to be convinced that so far from being a painful process the act of death is rather pleasant than otherwise, writes Dr. William W.
Hammond in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.
The physical phenomena that leads up to the departure of vitality from the body are often characterized by great suffering.
There may be pain suffocation due to the irregularity in the action of the heart and lungs, and above all intense mental anguish. But when death begins all feelings of discomfort in mind or body disappears; pain in whatever part it may be situated ceases to be perceived; the heart may beat with still greater irregularity, the lungs fail still more notably to perform their functions; nothing has happened to dissipate the fear or remorse or sorrow that has harassed the dying person, but the perceptions, the intellect, the emotions, the will are blunted and no longer respond to excitations that formerly moved them.

Death as we see it in persons who have suffered from a more or less protracted illness is not generally an act that is accompanied in a few moments of time. It may even last for several hours, during which period the vital forces are extinguished little by little, so gradually, in fact that we are not able to determine the exact instant
at which life becomes extinct.

Physiologists speak of death as occurring
through the cessation of the action of either the brain or the heart or the lungs. But the brain can not be regarded as an organ absolutely essential to life, however necessary it may be to its regular and systematic course. The entire organ may be removed from certain kinds of animals and yet life goes along as perfectly for a time as though it were still there to dominate the rest of the body. The heart beats, the lungs breathe, the stomach digests, and the several glands continue to secrete, the secretions proper to them, and not only all this, but actions are performed which are well calculated to excite astonishment in those who see them for the first time and who have embraced the idea that all intelligence resides in the brain. Thus, for instance, if the brain be entirely removed from the head of a frog
and the web between the toes be pinched
the limb is immediately withdrawn; if the shoulder be scratched with a needle the hind foot of the same side is raised to remove the instrument; if the animal is held up by one leg it struggles; if placed on its back—a position to which frogs have a natural tendency—it immediately turns over on its belly; if one foot be held firmly with a pair of forceps the frog endeavors to draw it away; if unsuccessful it places the other foot against the instrument and pushes firmly in the effort to remove it; still not succeeding it writhes the body from side to side and makes a movement as though it were about to spring forward, and in the end a rattling stroke after its head was cut off, and a viper has been known to crawl straight for its hole in the wall after suffering like mutilation.

Nor are such experiments the only evidence we have that life may persist though the brain be absent. It sometimes happens that individuals of the human species survive without brains. In one instance of the kind life was present for six months.
Though very feeble this being had the faculty of sucking and the several functions of the body seemed to be well performed.
His eyes clearly perceived the light and during the night he cried if the candle were removed to go out. After death the cranium was opened and there was found to be an entire absence of the cerebrum. In another case, that of a male infant which lived eighteen hours, there was found after death no vestige of a brain, nevertheless respiration was established, the pupils contracted to the light; bitter juice put into the mouth was immediately rejected and loud hollow caused movements of the body.
In another case in which the cranium was entirely empty life continued for four days,
yet this being opened and shut its eyes,
cried, sucked and even ate broth.

The brain, therefore, is essential to life
only so far as it is essential to the continued action of the heart and lungs. When it is the seat of disease in certain of its parts
the action of all the organs of the body is more or less impaired although they may continue their functions in such a manner
as not to be immediately destructive to life.
It is only when brain disease leads to the arrest of the action of the heart or lungs
that death becomes inevitable.

Death beginning at the heart occurring
either as the result of brain injury or disease, or like factors affecting the organ itself, may take place suddenly or after a very long and painful period of time has elapsed. In neither case is the act of death painful. Should the heart stop suddenly the brain is at once deprived of its due supply of blood; all sensa-bility is immediately abolished. There are a few imperfect respirations and life has vanished, probably without the striken person having the slightest consciousness of the moment that the current of blood failed to reach his brain. Such cases are comparatively infrequent, but they are common enough for us to have become acquainted with the phenomena by which they are characterized. The aspect of a person dying in the manner described above that there has been no suffering, mental or physical; the countenance is placid and the position of the body that of entire repose.

In other instances the state of the patient for a considerable period before death is marked by great suffering. The respiration is difficult, the lungs are congested, there are periods characterized by faintness and loss of consciousness, the limbs and the face become dropsical, the recumbent position is attended with an increase in the feeling of suffocation due to the interference with the respiration, and hence the patient is obliged

A COUNTRY IDYL.
"Oh, let me leave the city's bust,
Its fripperies and formalities,
And wander where my heart is free,
On nature's verdant hillside,
I'll turn from fashion's mimic train,
Its aping airs, its high disdain,
And bask in my heart and brain
In primitive realities."

He turned from "fashion's mimic train,"
And sought the calm reality
Of field and forest, tree and plain,
Disburdened of publicity.
But horse-dies marked him for their prey,
And down his back came day by day
The caterpillar with its way
In sinuous eccentricity.

And when beneath some arched elm
He'd lie in thoughtful reverie
The bumble-bee and tumble-bug
Would come with benedictive
With daisy-don'ts run a race,
And march in military array
Across his bearded and blistered face
In wild, tumultuous revelry.

And while the still breeze from the south
Lapped him in dreams ethereal,
The gay green frog leaped in his mouth
With aerobit precision;
The woodcock nibbled at his nose,
The weasel chewed up both his toes,
The snake crawled thro' his underclo's
In wandering indecision.

He lay there in the valley green,
The city's strains to calm off,
And the farmer with his mowing machine
Then mowed his outstretched arm off.
And then he rose with murderous will
And roamed the earth and vowed to kill
All poets who with benedict skill
Such pastoral lies could palm off.

—S. W. Fox, in Time.

ON THE STAIR.
I met a little maiden on the stair
With ruse-bud lips, blue eyes and golden hair;
I bared the way, and laughingly I said:
"You can't go by until the toll is paid."

She paid the tribute with bewitching grace;
And I, a second time, from that sweet face
Would I have snatched, but, running by,
She paused not till she heard my heart-beat Die.

Then, glancing round, she saw my longing look,
And said: "That kiss you had to laugh for look,
For it was grandma's, and I have no more;
What shall I do when she comes to the door?"

"Dear child," I cried, "the kiss I will not take
But give it back again—for grandma's sake."
And so once more I kissed the maiden fair,
And she went up, and I came down the stair.
—J. R. Fairbank, in Harper's Young People.

How the Sexton Figured It.
Two ladies entered a fashionable church in New York just before the services began, and one of them remarked to the sexton that the star on the pulpit, in which were a great many gas jets, had the point turned the wrong way, and that it should point up instead of down. The dignified old man, feeling that his quarter of a century's experience should entitle him to opinion to respect, and realizing the difficulty of making a change, straightened up and said: "Ladies, we are told in the Scriptures that the star hung over the manger to lead the wise men thither. If it was to guide them to the sacred spot and direct them to the manger,
or course it would point down and not up."

The star remains as it was.

The Great Monthly Magazine of the World.—Pacific Churchman.
THE CENTURY
MAGAZINE IN 1889.

WHY has it such an enormous circulation? Experts estimate that between two and three millions of people read each number.

BECAUSE The Century is above every other thing a leader. It led the development of wood-engraving in America, and it has fostered American authors. It is alive to the needs of today. What it prints sets people to thinking and talking.

BECAUSE Whatever other periodicals
the great reading world has found out that no household can be without it. Its success is explained by its contents.

BECAUSE The greatest writers of the world, like to have their work read by the greatest number, and therefore to such a magazine as THE CENTURY the best naturally comes. It was for THE CENTURY that General Grant first wrote his reminiscences of important battles.

BECAUSE It is publishing the life of Abraham Lincoln, by his grandson. Of the life of Lincoln, a series of the young man who is not reading it robs himself of that which he will hunger for.
The coming year presents the most important part of this great history, which may mark
any time.

BECAUSE It is printing those remarks able articles on "Siberia and the Pacific Ocean," by George Kennan, and are being reprinted in hundreds of foreign newspapers, but are not allowed to enter Russia.
The "Chicago Tribune" says that "no other magazine articles printed in the English language last year touch upon subjects which so vitaly interests all thoughtful people in Europe and America and Asia." They are as judicious as the opinion of a Supreme Court tribunal—as thrilling as the most sensational drama.

BECAUSE During 1889 THE CENTURY
is to have a series of engravings of the greatest pictures of the old Italian masters, made by Timothy Cole, the leading wood-engraver in the world, who has spent four years in Italy on this series of a series of "Strange True Stories of Louisiana," by Geo.
W. Cable, occasional richly illustrated papers describing the scenes of the current international Sunday-school lessons; interesting illustrated papers on Ireland, and a series of humorous and pathetic Irish-American stories;
a striking illustrated novelette, "The Romance of Holland," by a new writer, and other novelties to be announced later; special-entail war papers, technical and descriptive of special operations, sketches of the "Pan West," by Mary Halleck Foote, etc., etc. We have no space here to announce all the new features.
Let us tell you (free) our "Catalogue of Special Publications," with original illustrations containing full prospectus, special offer of back numbers to the beginning of the Siberian papers, etc. The November number, which beginning the new volume, is for sale everywhere
after November 1st. THE CENTURY costs 50 cents a number; $4.00 a year. Address: THE

MARRYING THEMSELVES

Governor Bellingham's First Instance on Record in America.

The interesting history of some of the most recently performed marriages in New York is not without precedent. The marriage of Miss Lucy Stone and Dr. Blackwell, about thirty-five years ago, was of somewhat the same nature; but, according to the Boston Herald, there is still earlier precedent in Boston, viz., that of Governor Richard Bellingham, of Massachusetts, of which colony he was one of the original patentees. This remarkable marriage was enacted nearly two hundred and fifty years ago, and under circumstances of peculiar notoriety.

Richard Bellingham, who was bred a lawyer, had been recorder of the old town of Boston, in England. He came to Boston, in the colony of Massachusetts, in 1634, and in the following year was chosen its Deputy Governor. In August, 1634, he was chosen recorder of the town, and with his first wife, Elizabeth Fenner, he joined the orthodox church in August of the year following, making a public profession of faith. In 1641 he was chosen Governor in opposition to Winthrop, and was chosen again in 1654, and again in 1665, after the death of Endicott, continuing in office for the remainder of his life. His marriage occurred December 7, 1672. In 1654 he was made Major-General, and in that year the King sent four commissioners to regulate the affairs of the province, ordering Bellingham and others, who were obnoxious, to proceed to England, and answer accusations that were made against them in person. His Majesty, however, is said to have been appeased by the present of a ship load of masts.

But the peculiar matter in point occurred in the earlier part of Governor Bellingham's colonial career. His first wife, who accompanied him from England, died in 1638. There had been in the family before this occurrence a young woman named Penelope Felham, whose position appears to have been that of housekeeper or assistant in household matters. After Mrs. Bellingham's death, the continuance of this young woman in the Governor's household was the occasion of considerable gossip. To his other domestic, Governor Bellingham added that of judge or magistrate for the trial of causes, and this gossip so scandalized the court that it was decided to depose him from his position. This was in 1641, when his housekeeper was but twenty years of age. But he refused to leave the bench, and the grand inquest presented him for breach of order of the court and the Secretary called him to answer the presentation. Being Governor, as well as Judge, he was not an easy subject to handle. However, in deference to public opinion, and no doubt as a matter of policy, he called together the ministers and some of the people, inviting them to his house, and there, in their presence, bringing Penelope forward, he introduced her to them, saying: "This is my wife, but I will have no law about it. God is enough for me and her."

This was all the marriage ceremony vouchsafed by the Governor, and appears to have been acquiesced in by the community, for he was never after troubled about it. He was not a godless man, but rather a strong strangely wed is said to have borne him six children, who, however, all died young. His religious peculiarities may be seen in part by his will, which provides that, after the decease of his wife and his granddaughter, the bulk of his estate should be spent for the yearly maintenance of "goodly ministers and preachers" of the true church, which he considered to be that of the Congregationalists. His sister Annie, widow of William Hibbins, one of his assistants, was executed as a witch in June, 1660. Though latitudinarian enough on the subject of his own marriage, Governor Bellingham was violently opposed to innovation in religious matters, and was exceedingly severe toward the Quakers, who affirm, says Drake, that he died distracted.

An Imperial Abbess.

Archduchess Marguerite Sophie, daughter of Archduke Charles Louis, of Austria, has been installed at Prague as the abbess of a community of noble ladies of the Habsburgs. The new abbess is only eighteen years old and she enjoyed the ceremony of retiring from the world. She was robed in black, with an ermine mantle, and the ring and insignia of her rank were turned over to her with any amount of pomp and ceremony. If she gets tired of seclusion, there will be a chance to change her mind, as the rules of this convent are not of the strictest. It was founded under Maria Theresa as a retreat for noble unmarried ladies, and she can go away if they get tired, or see a prospective husband who pleases them. The mother of the King of Spain was abbess there from 1776 to the time she married.

A Mighty Tough Cat.

A cat with more than the traditional tenacity of life was rescued from a singularly perilous perch in the fly-wheel of the engine in a Bristol worsted mill a few days ago. The wheel was making 150 revolutions per minute, and the interminable howl of dismay which escaped the terror-stricken feline attracted the attention of the engineer. When the engine was stopped the cat was stiff with fright, and its whole body seemed to have been absorbed by its tail. It recovered after a few spasms on the ground. The engineer believed that the cat had been clinging to the wheel for at least two or three hours.

He Despised the Zulus.

A military officer once engaged a car in Cork, and at the end of the trip paid the driver sixpence. Now, sixpence was the exact amount due, but more gracious customers were in the habit of paying a shilling for the same distance. "Bad luck to the Zulus!" muttered Pat ruefully, looking at the same coin in his palm. The Zulu war was in progress, or had just ended, and the officer turned round sternly. "What is that you say?" "Bad luck to the Zulus, sir!" "Why do you say that?" "Faith, yer honor, because they killed all the shilling officers, and left none but the sixpence ones."

He Meant "O. O. D."

An "up North" clergyman, says the Albany (N. Y.) Argus, was recently annoyed at the delay of a New York firm in shipping some stained glass windows for his church, so he tied himself to the telephone office and intoned and had wired to the delinquent the following terse and expressive telegram: "To New York. 'Send those windows p. d. q.' The windows came in short order, but imagine the consternation of the clergyman and the horror of some of his church members when a 'p. d. q.' was read in the face of a messenger boy who had glanced at the original message, found that he could not keep the secret and told it to another youth, who directly repeated it to his mother—and then it was the subject of street talk. Some of the good people of the town were still wondering how the pastor came to be so familiar with his quotations when the proper abbreviations of Colonel Bartlett alone the 'member from the Cuban district.'"
